

ADVANCED NUTRITIONAL SCAN USING THE AVATAR

FIX THE CAUSE, NOT JUST TREAT THE SYMPTOM

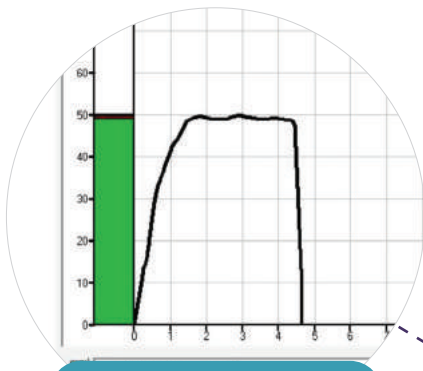

The Avatar device is also known as an EAV device (Electro Acupuncture according to Voll). By using a very low electrical impulse, that cannot be felt at all, it can measure the energetic health of the acupuncture meridians. Each meridian corresponds to an internal organ, for example for liver, bowel, kidneys etc. The Avatar gives a non-invasive, quick and simple way to measure the health of all your organs (in an energetic way, not a diagnostic way).

It is possible to tell if an organ is in balance, stressed, tired and even getting better or getting worse. It really is amazing! We can then prioritise which organ to help first. And this is the important part... It will be the organ that will give you the best chance of having a great, healthy, recovery, not just a quick symptom fix. It will be the organ that has the greatest knock on affect to support and help other organs recover too.

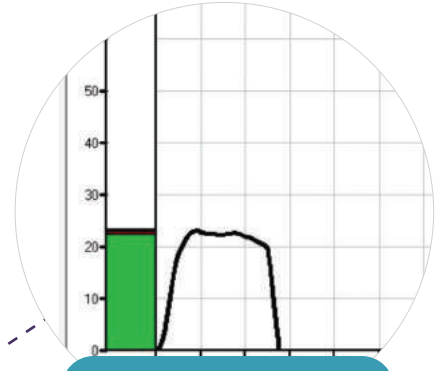

Let me explain a common example...

Very often patients have the symptoms of an under active thyroid as they feel tired and have weight gain issues. However, if there was a lot of stress preceding these problems it is commonly a problem of the stress organs (the adrenals) suppressing the thyroid, rather than the thyroid itself. The Avatar would make this clearly visible if this is the case and we could appropriately support the adrenals rather than the thyroid.

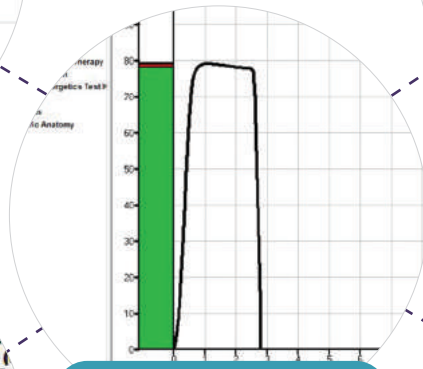

BALANCED READING

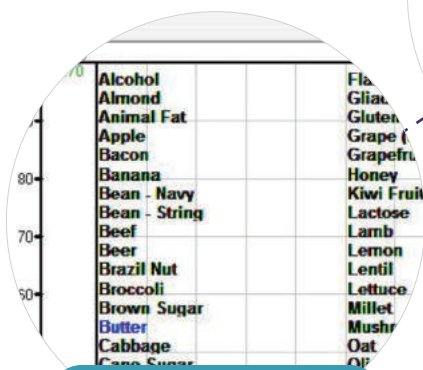

Have a look at these screen shots showing the different readings we may see:

SUPPLEMENT AND REMEDY TESTING

When you have a follow up scan it overlays the readings so you can even see how you have improved!

Choose the right supplements specifically for YOU

Once we have found the correct organ to support we can then use the Avatar to test for the best supplements for that problem. It is possible to test hundreds of supplements so there is no more guessing at which is the best for you.

Food intolerances

In the same way as we can test the best supplements for you to take we can also test foods that you should avoid due to intolerance. However, using the Avatar it is often very easy to see how the digestive processes need to be healed first so the intolerance isn't a problem in the first case. This can mean a patient doesn't have to go down the road of avoiding lots of different foods which is always a tricky journey.

Your follow up scans

As we complete follow up scans we will be able to track your progress as the Avatar overlays your new scan on top of your last scan. You will visually see which body systems have improved, which have stayed the same and which organs are now asking for extra help. This is a fascinating process as the "layers of the onion" unravel and we go deeper in the healing process working through different stages of re-creating health, not just patching up the symptom of an illness.
